What would you do if you knew a grizzly bear was hibernating in the woods right behind your house? Well, the most lethal concentration of weapons of mass destruction sits in my back yard, so I've written this ebook. It's a personal introduction to nuclear weapons realities in 2015 by a physician working for over 30 years to abolish these weapons of mass destruction. Written for the general public in hopes of bringing to awareness the growing threats presented by current nuclear arsenals and national policies allowing their use. We are back to a threat level similar to the early Reagan years when Mutual Assured Destruction was on the lips of many Americans, Soviets, and others around the world. Newer awareness of climate change and other threats to civilization have brought the Doomsday Clock back to 3 minutes to midnight (the end of civilization as we know it). The American public needs and wants an end to the threats these weapons create. This book provides the rationale and ways to make it happen.
